

From 1 April 2009, the duties that had previously rested with the 5 Health & Social Care Boards in Northern Ireland transferred to three new organisations. These are

- The Health & Social Care Board which develops health & social care services across Northern Ireland
- The Public Health Agency which promotes public health & social well being and
- The Patient and Client Council which provides a voice for patients, clients, carers and communities

Health & Social Services are provided by 5 Health & Social Care Trusts across Northern Ireland. These trusts manage hospitals, residential care centres, health centres and other social care facilities throughout NI.
